Raising Special Kids helps me develop my toolbox.

Jill remembers being in the recovery room the day her son Jon was born. When her husband returned to her side after checking on the baby, she described him as “changed.” The doctor explained to her what he had already shared with her husband; he had identified a few markers for Down syndrome. Jill’s limited understanding and experience provided her with a not-so-optimistic vision for her son’s future.

It did not take her long to adjust to what she refers to as “the new normal” which included weekly visits from an early interventionist and various therapists. When Jon was in first grade, Jill reached out to Raising Special Kids for help with school. She recalls, “One of the most important things I’ve learned from Raising Special Kids is that parents are valuable members of any team decision-making process and their participation is required by law. Parents are powerful when given the right tools and Raising Special Kids helped me develop my toolbox. I regularly refer parents to Raising Special Kids and I tell them how much the organization helped me. And, most importantly, Raising Special Kids never turns anyone away.”

Parents are powerful when given the right tools.

Raising Special Kids helps me develop my toolbox.

Parents received information, training, and individual assistance

10,589

Parents gained useful knowledge about how to work with schools

93%

Parent to Parent Matches

379

Parents reported improved ability to advocate for child’s needs, services, and care

86%

Programs and Services for families

- Accurate, authoritative information related to your child’s disability or special health condition.
- Individual problem-solving support to understand and access the programs, health plans, and services your child may need.
- Special education consultations, training, and problem-resolution services.
- Parent coaching and mentoring programs.
- Workshops and training to increase advocacy skills and improve ability to work with professionals.
- Referrals to agencies, organizations, and community resources with expertise to meet your family’s needs.
Programs and Services for Professionals

Programs for physicians, educators, and social service professionals offer training and information about the family perspective on disability.

“...The services you provide are invaluable for parents and children and are above and beyond what our clinic can offer. This information will help me provide higher quality care to my patients.”

Lauren Drake, M.D.

2,292 Professionals attended training

96% Education professionals reported being better prepared to work with families

51 Pediatric and family practice physicians completed training and home visits

98% Physicians reported improved ability to communicate with families

“The services you provide are invaluable for parents and children and are above and beyond what our clinic can offer. This information will help me provide higher quality care to my patients.”

Lauren Drake, M.D.

“This is honestly what I’ve been looking for — a comprehensive resource for families regardless of the diagnosis. I love that the organization is parent run, that it connects families going through similar experiences, and empowers communities.”

Abimbola Oduguwe, M.D.

Contact Us:
Raising Special Kids
5025 E. Washington St., Ste. 204
Phoenix, AZ 85034

Phoenix: 602.242.4366
Flagstaff: 928-444-8834
Sierra Vista: 520-441-3411
Tuba City: 928-444-8687
Tucson: 520-441-4007
Yuma: 928-444-8803
Toll Free: 800-237-3007
Fax: 602-242-4306
info@raisingspecialkids.org
www.raisingspecialkids.org